CONTEXT

The client is a provider of human resources development programs, human capital analytics certification programs and assessments (psychometric, team performance, leadership etc) to organizations worldwide. The clients had a need to deliver courses, assessments and certification programs to subscribers interactively and effectively, and were therefore dependent on conducting direct classroom sessions for their corporate trainees, which limited their geographical reach.

SOLUTION

Baryons provided a solution with a learning portal, and a revamped web presence for the client. The learning portal allows for individuals or corporate groups to register pay fees for courses, and take self-courses online. The courses are delivered online via interactive lessons, assignments, job aids, games and quizzes. These provided our client the much needed ability to deliver interactive and effective course online and address a larger audience. Other tools like planners, learning dashboard, and discussion boards were provided for learners to plan and track their progress, and interact with other people using the platform. The portal allows course instructors to define courses and upload course materials including quizzes and assessments. A facility to rate assessments was provided along with reports and dashboards to assess the performance of groups or the entire population of learners.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Baryons consulted the customer on every aspect of the learning portal development.
- Post rollout of the solution the customer has been able to reach new individual and corporate customers for their online offerings.
